UO GMs NOT CANNIBALS SAYS UO

UO spokesperson Woot
Woot Barney today
denounced as "mere speculation" reports that GMs lured players into a Tokuno wooded area for an Iron Chef Competition.
"They were the chefs," Jack The Bloody accuses,
"And we were the ingredients."

This reporter stared at the veteran player, as he leaned noticeably to the left in the saddle. "What happened?" I asked.

"It was horrible. Some of us followed runes marked 'Good Food' to a woods. We were jumped by GMs wearing chef's hats & carrying cleavers."

"They slaughtered several

people I knew -Wizzax, Gandolf, Jada- and
popped them into open ovens. Then they danced around adding spices and
chanting,
'Kick-it-up-a-notch.'"

"They chased me," Jack said, "Yelling, 'Get that one! He's already half baked.'"

The big man shifted uncomfortably in his saddle, leaned left again and fixed me with his steely eyes. "I can show you proof," he said.

Jack The Bloody looked around carefully. Then he dismounted and mooned
me. OMG! His left
buttock is missing!

"They almost got me," he said. "It was real
close, I tell you."

But UO spokesperson Woot Woot, even when confronted with this eye
witness testimony,
dismissed it derisively, saying only, "Well, that evidence is half-arsed, ain't it?"

Missed Manners'
Online Etiquette

Dear Missed Manners,
Girls avoid me. And I don't know why. My character is modeled after the Greek God of speed, known for his humor and his helpfulness.

I even wear a winged helmet. But I don't even git a chance to strike up a conversation! What could possibly be wrong?
- Herpes

Dear Herpes,
Well, it's not your

character.

LETTERS FROM THE EDITOR

The letters for consideration this issue
are F and U. Properly used, together, F and U convey our first thoughts in many everyday situations. General usage indicates rejection.

"Colors! Red white & blue. I love the red white & blue!"

"FU you, you drunk,
we're being pulled over."

"I'm making minimum wage. That means my boss is telling me, 'FU, I'd pay you less, but it's against the law.'"

"You're being paranoid.
Of course she loves you.
That's why she gave you that gift for your
bathtub."

"FU! A toaster!?"

And the most common FU these days? It's texting something to someone, something
important to you, and they reply back with an emoji. Any godamn emoji.
Or maybe that's FO. Not a lot of difference.
